Dear Shiloh Gleason,

In response to your job posting for user architect, I am including this letter and my resume for your review.

In my previous role, I was responsible for expertise in the area of integrated application architectures in order show how best to apply vCloud solutions to solve complex IT problems.

Please consider my qualifications and experience:

- Maintaining the publication processes of our Editorial Content Management System, Schema ST4 according to continuously evolving requirements, and supporting our TechWriters to generate Information Products in multiple file formats (CHM, PDF, HTML)
- Programming the interfaces to the CMS, for the Localization of content, to the SW Build environment and for the distribution of content to different groups in the audience
- Developing taxonomies and information models for our new state-of-the-art Online help system
- Drafting and specifying software components, processes and applications related to our CMS
- Evaluating software products and creating prototypes, contributing to software tests and participating in acceptance tests
- Designing and developing CMS-based report templates that leverage from meta data, make them available for IT processing and enable for the development of new applications
- Maintaining the customized configuration of our XMetaL Author editor and the underlying data model
- Solid knowledge of (and ideally practical experience with) developing structured content according to standards such as DITA, Pi-Mod, Functional Design

Thank you in advance for taking the time to read my cover letter and to review my resume.

Sincerely,

Avery Lockman
