

Example of Academic Designer Job Description

Powered by www.VelvetJobs.com

Our growing company is searching for experienced candidates for the position of academic designer. We appreciate you taking the time to review the list of qualifications and to apply for the position. If you don't fill all of the qualifications, you may still be considered depending on your level of experience.

Responsibilities for academic designer

- Work closely with other team members to ensure efficiency, effectiveness, and a healthy team culture
- Familiarity with visualizations of data and strategies for best ways by which to see and send analytic information on the web to various constituents / stakeholders
- Help foster a positive culture within Learning Design of collaboration, collegiality, innovation, and product excellence
- Work in partnership with departments and programs to support web strategies and initiatives
- Potentially participate on strategic initiatives related to, but not limited to, content, learning innovation, teaching strategies, and assessment effective practices
- Produce designs, prototypes and graphics for web and application products
- Collaborate with other designers and developers to conceptualize and iterate on application interfaces
- Interact with various stakeholders as needed, including analytics and research teams, end users, and technology partners
- Collaborate closely with Academic Innovation software developers, instructional designers, faculty, and students to define and prioritize innovative functionalities optimized for various platforms
- Analyze software design choices faced by AI project teams and make recommendations, based on in-depth reviews and analysis of available

Qualifications for academic designer

- Design, develop and teach faculty development workshops and other forms of professional development in areas of instructional design and in the use of specific instructional technology tools
- Participate in the testing and deployment of Blackboard upgrades/hotfixes, eLearning tools
- Participate in TLC events as requested (Celebrate!, Sandbox Open House, New Faculty Orientation, etc)
- Provide advice and counsel to TLC and iDesign leadership and staff on the strategic, tactical and operational issues associated with the development of instructional technology at the University
- Two plus years of editorial experience with digital know-how
- Bachelor's degree in elementary or middle school education with an emphasis on ELL, or equivalent work experience