

Example of Analyst, Ecommerce Job Description

Powered by www.VelvetJobs.com

Our growing company is hiring for an analyst, ecommerce. Thank you in advance for taking a look at the list of responsibilities and qualifications. We look forward to reviewing your resume.

Responsibilities for analyst, ecommerce

- Is always looking at market trends and industry benchmarks so as to improve his/her subject matter expertise in digital commerce
 - Translates business user requirements into Agile based Epics, User Stories and Acceptance Criteria
 - Assists the Product Lead in managing and prioritizing the flow of Agile Team work by ensuring that there are sufficient, 'ready for development' features within the backlog at all times
 - Ensures that visual design and interaction requirements align with the functional/written requirements (aka epics and user stories)
 - Defines releases and product increments to ensure that Agile Teams are driving towards business objectives and value based outcomes within each release
 - Actively participates in Agile Team product demos and determines whether commitments have been satisfied
 - Collaborates with Business Development and Operations to ensure that that the organization is appropriately prepared for new solutions and enhancements to the eCommerce platform
 - Helps to measures the impact that new solutions & enhancements have on the digital platform for driving ongoing success
 - Assist business partners by proactively sharing knowledge and learnings, advising business partners on best ways to extract and use website data
 - Write routines to clean and prepare data for analysis
-

- Self-reliant throughout the lifecycle of a project with minimum supervision
- Flexible with working off-business hours as needed
- Must have a sense of ownership and accountability
- Retail and analytics experience preferred
- Websphere experience a plus
- Data Visualization experience for presentations and performance snapshots