

Example of Analyst Information Job Description

Powered by www.VelvetJobs.com

Our company is looking to fill the role of analyst information. If you are looking for an exciting place to work, please take a look at the list of qualifications below.

Responsibilities for analyst information

- Recommends and implements hardware, OS, and security application updates
- Performs post mortem analysis on logs, traffic flows, and other activities to identify malicious activity
- Analyzes and reviews escalated cases until closure
- Assists in the design and development of training materials and general documentation for non-technical business community
- Ensures all security solutions and designs meet local and federal compliance requirements such as SOX, ISO 27001, and PCI DSS and coordinates with the Internal/External Auditors and Information Technology teams to successfully complete periodic audits
- Participates in an on-call rotation and performs after hours work as required
- Serve as a core member of ESnet's Security Group performing varying security duties including threat awareness, proactive and reactive security analysis, incident response, forensic analysis, and resolution of security incidents
- Uncover computer and network vulnerabilities, reducing the risk incurred by vulnerabilities, automating workflow processes supporting ESnet's security architecture
- Integrate knowledge of network protocols, services, threats, vulnerabilities, mitigation strategies, hardware capabilities, and other information to build a security environment that reduces and mitigates risk while allowing ESnet's open science mission to succeed
- Examine a wide range of data, including Bro logs, NetFlow data, centralized

Qualifications for analyst information

- Retail experience a must, e-Commerce experience a plus
- Knowledge of Retail and e-Commerce merchandising best practices
- Proficiency with a PIM tool (product information management) and with site analytics tools (e.g., Omniture, Visual Sciences, Coremetrics or Google Analytics)
- Broad understanding of business processes and forward thinking ability to project impact of changes
- Sound business judgment, proven ability to influence others and strong decision making skills based upon a mixture of analysis, wisdom, experience, and judgment
- Demonstrate a high level of initiative and be a solution seeker