Our company is hiring for an architecture, senior. If you are looking for an exciting place to work, please take a look at the list of qualifications below.

Responsibilities for architecture, senior

- Understanding the concepts of diagnosis, creating designs that account for hardware failures in a leading edge HPC development
- Develop and coordinate detailed design concepts, functional requirements and project-design criteria
- Provide technical and professional leadership over large or complex initiatives where multiple architectural disciplines are involved
- Work with senior leaders to identify issues and opportunities related to supporting our Development teams
- Lead the development of program level artifacts, including leadership briefing, project roadmaps, plans of action, guides, project charters, program/project management plans and supporting plans, risk management plans, and other SDLC documentation
- Engage the client to develop and execute clear plans of action
- Define and address risks/problems/issues quickly and effectively
- Manage full engagement of assigned team members, providing mentoring and guidance as required
- Facilitate discussions with Government and contract support teams in different phases of SDLC
- Under general supervision, is responsible for providing administrative support to assigned staff for confidential and time sensitive material

Qualifications for architecture, senior

- Related experience in the National Healthcare Market

- A minimum of 10-15 years of experience in building design programs is required
- Proven ability to stratagize and direct business growth and direction
- Forward thinking and ability to articulate clear vision and understanding of trends in the field of building design
- Must have a thorough knowledge of codes, guidelines and standards effecting building design and construction across multiple market sectors