

Example of AV Engineer Job Description

Powered by www.VelvetJobs.com

Our company is growing rapidly and is hiring for an AV engineer. To join our growing team, please review the list of responsibilities and qualifications.

Responsibilities for AV engineer

- Audio and video project design, SOW creation, planning and management
- Liaise with Workspace Resources and Line of Business managers to support A/V systems and environment design
- A strong team participation character
- A good understanding of other building services
- Ability to achieve and maintain high levels of quality and consistency of outputs
- Ability to work autonomously and contribute to the quality of deliverables and meeting deadlines
- High levels of written and oral communication
- A willingness to travel, from time to time, to support specific client requirements
- Report status of I.T
- This position will serve the role as the key person to deploy campus wide A/V solutions

Qualifications for AV engineer

- Able to work flexible work hours, be self-motivated, and able to work under tight deadlines
- Has excellent interpersonal and communication skills and is comfortable dealing with a variety of end users, including C level executives, talent, various internal departments (Network Engineering, Facilities, etc) external vendors

- Extensive experience with Evertz video routing systems and broadcast equipment integration with a focus on physical installation
- Proficient with DCP playout systems and DCI compliance
- Experience designing and supporting post production technology (edit/QC bays, storage and machine rooms)