

Example of Biomedical Job Description

Powered by www.VelvetJobs.com

Our company is hiring for a biomedical. To join our growing team, please review the list of responsibilities and qualifications.

Responsibilities for biomedical

- Coordinates all education and clinical support related to the installation of new equipment
- This is a technician still receiving training who is supported by experienced technicians and/or Biomedical Chief for troubleshooting and equipment maintenance
- This technician is responsible for repair and planned maintenance of patient-related equipment in the hospital, as directed by the Biomedical Chief
- The technician must complete documentation on all work performed with regard to repair, planned maintenance, and calibrations
- Facilitate the design and constructions of prototypes of devices and systems for the ongoing research
- Manage the manufacturing of outsourced parts
- Fully understands appropriate utilization of financial resources
- Maintain and create DHF files and reports in the role of project engineer
- Work with engineering and marketing teams on new product development and sustaining engineering particularly but not exclusively as it relates to the biomedical interaction between device and consumer
- Work with Regulatory to develop and support new clinical studies

Qualifications for biomedical

- Experience with deep learning approaches
- Education in Biomedical Engineering or related field (Biotechnology, Mechanical Engineering, etc)

- Must be willing and able to travel ~15% (up to 40%) of the time primarily between New England facilities via car or train
- BSEET or BSEE preferred or 7 Plus current experience
- Ability to read schematics, troubleshoot, and make recommendations for product improvement