

Example of Business Modelling Job Description

Powered by www.VelvetJobs.com

Our company is looking for a business modelling. We appreciate you taking the time to review the list of qualifications and to apply for the position. If you don't fill all of the qualifications, you may still be considered depending on your level of experience.

Responsibilities for business modelling

- To implement the models in derivative warehousing systems
- To collaborate with IT developers on the development of functionalities of the in-house system for exotic products
- To perform risk study of derivative portfolios and provide input on risk management
- To work with Group Risk on the validation of models
- To contribute to the qualitative risk management derivative portfolios in the front office
- Aid with the development and understanding of enterprise threat scenarios and potential attack vectors to support organisational risk management at all levels
- Enhance and develop threat modelling processes and methodologies that will fully test the bank's resiliency to attacks across businesses, platforms and applications
- Operationalise processes and methodologies to ensure they reflect the reality of both the threat environment and banking operations
- Monitor the cyber threat environment to better predict future dangers to the enterprise's business processes and to ensure continued relevancy of threat scenarios and threat modelling exercises
- Give direct intelligence and modelling support to specific organisational projects and operations and ensure that key stakeholders receive support to enable successful project outcomes

-
- Previous experience of working in one of our focus industry sectors
 - Highly skilled near qualified/qualified Actuary with at least 5+ years' experience working in the life insurance industry
 - Ability to forge strong relationships, with excellent facilitation, elicitation and conflict management skills
 - Excellent organisational and analytical skills with attention to detail – able to quickly absorb details on business structure, product features and model requirements, and to own the production of clear business and functional specifications
 - Good knowledge of actuarial reserving practices and theory in the reinsurance / life insurance industry
 - Excellent communication, both written and verbal, with an ability to work with stakeholders spread over several locations