

Example of Clinical Applications Specialist Job Description

Powered by www.VelvetJobs.com

Our growing company is hiring for a clinical applications specialist. If you are looking for an exciting place to work, please take a look at the list of qualifications below.

Responsibilities for clinical applications specialist

- Support assigned trade shows and professional conferences by performing product demonstration/promotion, collecting customer feedback, addressing concerns
- Use product knowledge along with understanding of clinical environment to assist in troubleshooting clinical issues, deploying technology to assist in supporting workflow
- Conduct regular review sessions with commercial team
- Support the Product Segment Leaders, in-country Product Specialists and Channel Partner sales/clinical applications teams with training, clinical domain and product expertise
- A passion for customer service and the ability to perform with a sense of urgency while achieving short and long-term goals
- The ability to work autonomously being an integral part of a team
- Strong ability to diagnose and trouble shoot complex electro-mechanical devices
- Availability to travel within Australia
- Support trade shows and professional conferences by performing product upgrade demonstration and promotion customer training
- Careplan Development & Documentation

Qualifications for clinical applications specialist

- Must have effective teaching and training skills to educate physicians, nursing, technical, reprocessing and sales personnel
- Must maintain all certification and/or registrations
- Registered Diagnostic Medical Sonographer (RDMS) is required
- Business experience in product demonstration, installation, inservice, training and teaching on usage is preferred
- PhD/MD degree in radiology, clinical, medical physics, bioengineering, medical imaging, computer science or related field