

Example of Consultant Engineer Job Description

Powered by www.VelvetJobs.com

Our growing company is looking to fill the role of consultant engineer. If you are looking for an exciting place to work, please take a look at the list of qualifications below.

Responsibilities for consultant engineer

- Attend, present, and conduct demonstrations at trade shows and events
- Gather ongoing prospect/customer feedback and related information
- Work closely with the engineering team to keep them abreast of industry trends and customer requirements
- Leverage industry knowledge and experience to define and guide the customer requirements and configuration of solutions
- Troubleshoot and resolve issues related to the cloud collaboration platform
- Provide technical leadership, governance and oversight for the design of information technology systems, projects and changes within the Company's environment with a core focus on security to ensure systems reliability, accessibility and compliance
- Develop and maintain a working relationship with external service providers responsible for providing technology consulting
- Participate and actively contribute to design workshops, where cladding solutions are explored and determined
- Execute configuration changes and software issues fixes
- Assist in the definition and process for the handover acceptance for new implementation of devices and circuits

Qualifications for consultant engineer

- Should be good at MS Excel
- Should be experienced and good at handling projects independently

- Working independently on delivering client engagements across the communications technologies field in general although with some specific focus on wireless voice and data communications
- Assisting in the development and delivery of proposals to clients, as required supporting business development activities within DI across the communications technologies field in general although with some specific focus on in-building communications