

Example of Developer, Automation Job Description

Powered by www.VelvetJobs.com

Our growing company is looking for a developer, automation. We appreciate you taking the time to review the list of qualifications and to apply for the position. If you don't fill all of the qualifications, you may still be considered depending on your level of experience.

Responsibilities for developer, automation

- Investigates and identifies components that should be incorporated so process flows function accurately and efficiently
- Participates in investigating new technologies and functionality related to job scheduling, file transfers, application automation, API's (restful, soap, etc) and other areas requested by management
- Perform evaluation activities as warranted and make recommendations to management regarding applicability and value
- Support internal and external stakeholder projects by ensuring all related application automation components are in place and functioning accurately and efficiently
- Create efficient processes to replicate the production job schedule for regression testing
- Act as ambassador for the team's capabilities, able to articulate benefits of automation to the organization
- Designs new automated processes and objects using core workflow principles that are efficient, well structured, maintainable, reusable and easy to understand
- Designs automated process solutions in accordance with team standard design principles and conventions
- Energize, coach and mentor other developers and team members
- Problem solves issues that are escalated to the development team in the day to day running of automated processes and provides timely responses and

Qualifications for developer, automation

- Good command of English (spoken and written), Cantonese is an advantage
- Responsible, hardworking & attentive to details
- Ability to work under pressure, manage large workloads and deal with challenges in a professional and calm manner
- Able to recognize color correctly
- Minimum of 2 years' experience of Blue Prism, with proven delivery of automated processes using that platform
- Knowledge of a Windows server base in a production environment