

Example of Developer, Database Job Description

Powered by www.VelvetJobs.com

Our company is growing rapidly and is searching for experienced candidates for the position of developer, database. Please review the list of responsibilities and qualifications. While this is our ideal list, we will consider candidates that do not necessarily have all of the qualifications, but have sufficient experience and talent.

Responsibilities for developer, database

- Perform Microsoft SQL Server activities like monitoring, troubleshoot and resolve database problems
- Proficient in creating stored procedures and complex SQL queries
- Ensures research and innovation at all levels of the software development process
- Works harmoniously in a cross-functional team comprising managers, supervisors, business analysts, systems personnel, network staff, and other developers in ensuring the delivery of software solutions as planned, within set budget, and timely
- Functions as technical architect and Subject Matter Expert (SME) on enterprise related software systems
- Performs the role of the principal designer responsible for complex systems and their subsystems employing deep knowledge of current technology and tools, relevant systems that are already existing
- Works with agency clients and ETS personnel to determine and state highly complicated business requirements and processes
- Acts as a coach or mentor to junior software developers
- Performs administrative duties some project management tasks
- Cooperate with software development group to support and improve production operations and process and for software upgrades

Qualifications for developer, database

- Trained in relational database modeling and normalization
- Effective problem solving skills, and ability to analyze existing systems and ascertain users' needs, and translate into clear proposals and plans
- Must have the ability to work multiple projects with multiple deliverables
- Must be proactive and be able to work both independently and collaboratively with staff in the IT&S division, internal customers and external vendors
- Excellent written and oral skills, including the ability to effectively communicate with internal customers and vendors, in a technical and non-technical manner, including communicating technical information to non-technical users