

Example of Development Chemist Job Description

Powered by www.VelvetJobs.com

Our growing company is looking to fill the role of development chemist. We appreciate you taking the time to review the list of qualifications and to apply for the position. If you don't fill all of the qualifications, you may still be considered depending on your level of experience.

Responsibilities for development chemist

- Researching, evaluating, and implementing new compound/composite technology
- Analyzing and summarizing lab test results
- Participating on cross-functional teams
- Interfacing with external material suppliers
- Collaborating with groups across the organization including Purchasing, Manufacturing, Research, Tire Applications Development, and other groups within Materials Development
- Owns at least one major or several minor processes and is able to drive continuous improvement
- Works independently and takes assignments from multiple leaders
- Completes job responsibilities with recommendations for decision makers
- Leader on small project teams and/or major individual contributor on several teams
- Works effectively in cross-functional teams to complete assignments

Qualifications for development chemist

- Familiar with team relevant chemistry, and/or methods and/or technology and/or equipment
- Good technical knowledge in reactive resin and application experience in formulating reactive resin based products for construction chemicals

- Minimum of 5 years related work experience with a preference to pretreatment experience
- Ability to write/speak English
- Minimum of a BS or BA in chemistry or equivalent science