

Example of Development Scientist Job Description

Powered by www.VelvetJobs.com

Our company is looking for a development scientist. Please review the list of responsibilities and qualifications. While this is our ideal list, we will consider candidates that do not necessarily have all of the qualifications, but have sufficient experience and talent.

Responsibilities for development scientist

- Prepare accurate, detailed technical reports, summaries, and protocols
- May provide guidance and support to junior staff
- Maintain familiarity with current scientific literature and keep track of latest developments related to assigned research projects
- Completion of assigned research & development projects with robust data collection and documentation of progress
- Development and investigation into new elastomer technologies
- Jointly with manager, maintain laboratory in a safe, tidy and regulatory compliant state
- Organise own work on a daily basis following discussion with manager
- May need to be involved in R&D trial sites both internal and external
- Preparation of media & maintenance of laboratory supplies to ensure timely availability
- May involve training internal staff and trial sites in the use of Sensititre equipment and consumables

Qualifications for development scientist

- Research in the area of processed, value-added meat, or food items such as snacks and/or pasta
- Master's degree in analytical chemistry, physics, materials science or related subject

- Knowledge of process technologies
- Experience in protein purification and characterization preferred