

Example of Editor, Senior Job Description

Powered by www.VelvetJobs.com

Our growing company is searching for experienced candidates for the position of editor, senior. Please review the list of responsibilities and qualifications. While this is our ideal list, we will consider candidates that do not necessarily have all of the qualifications, but have sufficient experience and talent.

Responsibilities for editor, senior

- Write and edit print and digital curriculum
- Oversee The Atlantic's coverage related to education and child development
- Cultivate and maintain relationships with influential designers and architects, other design industry leaders
- Manage a team of used car research writers, including setting deadlines, hiring, career development and performance reviews
- Manage multiple long- and short-term projects at the same time
- Edit new car reviews for accuracy, flow, consistency, SEO and formatting
- As needed, write clear, objective and concise used car reviews based on scored research to help consumers, other types of content
- Fact check his/her own reviews and content, supporting others on the team
- Perform a final review of all content before publishing to site, checking formatting, copy, relevance of placed recirculation and commerce links
- Assign and edit well features and major packages

Qualifications for editor, senior

- May require domestic and international travel
- In-depth knowledge of the scientific and technical journals publishing market, community and trends, competitors, authors experience working in collaboration with scientific societies
- Society/relationship management and strategic development of scientific

- Strong leadership capability, interpersonal and relationship management expertise to collaborate effectively with society partners and maintain a network within the communities we serve
- Highly motivated and achievement oriented and the ability to work in a fast paced environment