

Example of EHS Manager Job Description

Powered by www.VelvetJobs.com

Our company is growing rapidly and is looking for an EHS manager. If you are looking for an exciting place to work, please take a look at the list of qualifications below.

Responsibilities for EHS manager

- Performs workplace environmental audits
- Interfaces with the public and governmental authorities with adverse findings and enforces actions
- Develops and controls the budget for all maintenance areas
- Identify and ensure timely submission of all applicable EHS permits
- Ability to oversee Hazardous Waste Storage area and ensure regulatory agency compliance labeling
- Pursues third party recognition for programs that establish the site and our EHS program as world class
- Take a leading role in planning, co-ordinating, monitoring and implementing EHS policies and procedures, ensuring all operations comply with relevant legislation and company standards
- Hold budgetary responsibility for all areas of EHS
- Serve as a technical and regulatory expert for proactively managing EH&S issues across the business unit's US operations
- Responsible for creating an atmosphere of EH&S excellence, and delivering strong EH&S performance

Qualifications for EHS manager

- Excellent written and verbal communication skills and people skills
- Working knowledge of regulations, policies and prevailing cultures of Terminal operations

- Ability to provide a quick and efficient response to sensitive issues where a high level of technical, systematic or emergency thought process is required
- Ability to work on multiple projects under pressure within deadlines, interact with management, peers and regulatory agencies with self-confidence, poise and professionalism
- Must exhibit ability to function with limited supervision and at times will be assigned the task of coordinator or project manager, depending upon the nature and scope of applicable projects, including both capital and expense projects