Our innovative and growing company is hiring for an enterprise solutions architect. If you are looking for an exciting place to work, please take a look at the list of qualifications below.

Responsibilities for enterprise solutions architect

- Ensures financial targets are met by meeting budget goals and objectives
- Coaches, mentors, delegates and provides technical leadership to developers to facilitate their development
- Proposes changes to improve work and process flows and be a change catalyst
- Meets department and corporate goals by developing and communicating methodologies, standards and procedures related to the database and systems environment across the enterprise
- Establishes, refines and communicates ETS architecture standards, practices, reference models and solution patterns with focus on application and system architecture elements
- Partners with business to understand needs and identify strategies that align with architecture standings, leveraging existing common solutions and services, meets financial targets (cost and benefit) and minimize risk to overall organization
- Leads the selection of methodologies, tools, and components of total IT solutions including reviewing cost and feasibility of requests while ensure the plan supports the strategic needs of the organization as a whole
- Creates solution architecture diagrams and other design artifacts representing the approach and effect of proposed solution
- Drives conceptual phases of identifying and solving business problems and initiatives

Qualifications for enterprise solutions architect

- Prior experience in technical marketing, applications engineering, technical pre-sales, or experience deploying and maintaining large data centers is strongly preferred
- Detailed understanding of software I/O interactions throughout the system stack
- A desire to have hand's on time with server and storage hardware, to better understand IT usages and new technologies
- Broad understanding of options to automate data center testing and deployment
- Experience installing, configuring, and optimizing data center software applications for production IT environments
- Minimum of 4 Industry Recognized Vendor Certifications and TOGAF or ITIL Expert