Our innovative and growing company is looking to fill the role of features editor. If you are looking for an exciting place to work, please take a look at the list of qualifications below.

Responsibilities for features editor

- Forward planning long-lead agenda-setting features, bigger projects and campaigns
- Planning and development of the journalistic content for Nature, focusing on long-form journalism such as features, but including news and other content
- Edit copy to make it tight, coherent and compelling, working to deadline
- Write compelling headlines, standfirsts, captions and other accompanying text
- Work collegially and effectively with Chief Features Editor, Chief Magazine Editor, writers, art team, copy/sub editors editors in other departments / publications within the company
- Lead special issues or content pacakges on selected themes
- Work with core teams to invent new ways for users to interact with MATLAB code
- Explore ways for users to more effectively present concepts and results using the Live Editor
- Write carefully crafted, well-tested, modular code
- Present and participate in team design reviews

Qualifications for features editor

- Mastery of journalism practice (including reporting, writing, editing for various formats)
- Good interpersnal skills and ease working with staff and freelance colleagues

- Edit/rewrite op-eds and prepare them for publication
- Evaluate unsolicited submissions and communicate with the authors