

Example of Lead Business Systems Analyst Job Description

Powered by www.VelvetJobs.com

Our growing company is searching for experienced candidates for the position of lead business systems analyst. If you are looking for an exciting place to work, please take a look at the list of qualifications below.

Responsibilities for lead business systems analyst

- Lead internal and/or external client workshops/meetings to gather, understand and document project goals, workflows, complex business needs, gaps, and opportunities
- Lead business analysis efforts for projects and initiatives
- Describe the business need and potential solution in terms that both business and technical teams can understand
- Understand the system architecture and functionality, and assess the feasibility of client requests and applies the features of the various products as applicable
- Advise 'Program' and 'Product Managers' as to existing/possible technical capabilities or constraints
- Work with Product designers on proof of concepts and research and design efforts while closely working with Solution Architects, Product Managers, Scrum Masters and Software Engineers to ensure each story within the backlog has been considered and the concepts can easily advance from proof to product
- Use your ability to learn quickly your awareness on how to operate within an agile world to coach the team and stakeholders/sponsors to aid in the culture shift from waterfall to agile
- These documents serve as input to the creation of program specifications, test plans, user and system documentation, and training development and are used in all subsequent phases of the life cycle

Qualifications for lead business systems analyst

- Manage the specified business/systems requirements, working closely with the designated Project Manager to
- Experience executing on a lead role providing guidance to other team members at lower levels
- Critical Thinking and Strategic Thinking Skills
- A self-starter that has the ability to liaise with end-users and provide them updates on the issues reported and obtain information from them
- Be the “go-to “person for knowledge of the department’s applications and data
- Experience in technologies such as Web based, Mobile Applications, Web Services based functionality and file interfaces