

Example of Lead Enterprise Architect Job Description

Powered by www.VelvetJobs.com

Our company is growing rapidly and is looking to fill the role of lead enterprise architect. Please review the list of responsibilities and qualifications. While this is our ideal list, we will consider candidates that do not necessarily have all of the qualifications, but have sufficient experience and talent.

Responsibilities for lead enterprise architect

- Should be a thought leader in the domain and look for avenues to leverage industry practices like “open source”, crowd sourcing
- Lead the development of the BEA and updates to the BEA Development Methodology and Architecture Planning Guide
- Own the supplier technology strategy for the client
- Be accountable for all technology and architecture standards on the account
- Provide leadership, support and line management for a small team of architects
- Middleware, Information
- Security, Identity Management
- Create reference designs that reflect a best-practice approach to the execution of business processes and adhere to corporate and industry standards
- Enforce the use of standard tools, systems, practices and approved technologies
- Optimise cost structures

Qualifications for lead enterprise architect

- Develop long-term trusted advisor status with the assigned Customer(s) (within the Defense Department)
- Deliver deep industry insights to the Customer based on forward thinking of

- Conduct in-depth process level discovery workshops / assessments to frame the root causes of business problems and / or identify the critical requirements to capitalize on new opportunities
- Create and present the case for change to the customer's senior leaders including mission needs, process capability analysis, target architecture, and roadmap for value realization
- Deep US Defense Department (e.g., Army) expertise
- Executive communication of operating model innovation and new sources of value creation