

Example of Lead Field Engineer Job Description

Powered by www.VelvetJobs.com

Our company is growing rapidly and is looking to fill the role of lead field engineer. We appreciate you taking the time to review the list of qualifications and to apply for the position. If you don't fill all of the qualifications, you may still be considered depending on your level of experience.

Responsibilities for lead field engineer

- Determines when to approve custom orders and amends for labor hours and material costs, if required
- Manages all incoming requests and work assignments to support customer orders Testing/Troubleshooting
- Utilizes advanced troubleshooting ability to lead fault resolution Cross Connects
- Identifies cost savings opportunities and communicates to IBX management
- Proposes and implements use of advanced technology
- Provides weekly activity reports and metrics as required Projects · Develops job plans for large installation projects using tools such as MS Project / Visio / Excel
- Ensures staff fully trained on current functional operational procedures, Oracle operational procedures, and safety
- Manages customer requirements/issues, especially in sensitive situations · Attends internal coordination, progress meetings or conference calls
- Develop technical relationships with target OEM and development partners
- Be responsible for hands on startup and repair of Power Delivery equipment in Ohio

Qualifications for lead field engineer

- Have overall responsibility for management of all in country personnel and

- Participate in weekly CONUS staff meetings, provide briefings and status of all in country activity back to CONUS program team
- Conduct OCONUS staff meetings for all operators, FSRs, gen techs, trainers, and logisticians
- Responsible for maximizing system operational readiness and ensuring that on mission systems are fully mission capable
- Responsible for coordinating efforts of all other teams (FSRs, TIs, Gen Techs, Operators, Logisticians)