Example of Learning Developer Job Description

Powered by www.VelvetJobs.com

Our innovative and growing company is hiring for a learning developer. Thank you in advance for taking a look at the list of responsibilities and qualifications. We look forward to reviewing your resume.

Responsibilities for learning developer

- Responsible for the development of a modern web interface
- Responsible for development of supporting backend scoring database and the development of automated scoring agents for Windows and Linux
- Responsible for system testing in an integrated cyber range environment
- Develop and maintain administrative and end-user documentation
- Participate on development teams for the successful design, development, deployment, and evaluation of electronic media development, online courseware, and other related technology delivered learning projects
- Work with design and development teams to design and pilot new technologies for learning
- Design and develop web tools for learning on JCI Intranets, business-to-business portals, and external web sites
- Maintain learning technology, and content to meet IT and JCI business needs
- Work with specifications and requirements for learning technologies
- Participate in the assessment and qualifying of vendors and suppliers for technology development or programming

Qualifications for learning developer

- 5+ years' experience in technical communication, instructional design, digital learning solutions, journalism, or a related field
- BS/BA or higher in Education, Human Factors, Human Computer Interaction, Information Architecture, Computer Science, or Marketing

- Follow a structured approach to Global Learning Material development – instructor led, computer based, learning unit, on the job training
- Perform needs analysis to determine the learning need and the most suitable method of learning delivery for given situations
- Participate in Global and Site Cross Functional Teams to give learning material development input