

Example of Manager, Network Engineering Job Description

Powered by www.VelvetJobs.com

Our growing company is hiring for a manager, network engineering. If you are looking for an exciting place to work, please take a look at the list of qualifications below.

Responsibilities for manager, network engineering

- Lead and develop a high performing and highly engaged team
- Nurture the personal and career development of team members to ensure they are well positioned to be able to support the changing needs of TELUS and our customers
- Ensure TELUS' best interests are protected when negotiating and implementing the Joint Ownership and Use Agreement
- Responsible for all aspects of the organization's network systems including software and hardware
- Recommends, implements and maintains network architectures (LAN and WAN)
- Build and manage a team of high caliber Network and Security engineers, including coaching and maturing junior engineers to higher levels of tech competency
- Ensure monitoring and alerting of network infrastructure devices and related systems
- Lead critical troubleshooting efforts
- Direct management of a team of geographically dispersed Network Engineers throughout the US and dotted line management of a team located in India
- Manage the day to day IT operations and Network Engineering functions of the team

- Advanced knowledge in design of LAN and WAN solutions, including a strong working knowledge of data network equipment (routers, switches)
- Ability to lead a team of Network Engineers independent
- Ability to work in a time sensitive environment, , meet monthly SLAs
- TS/SCI with DHS EOD clearance
- Minimum 7 years experience in wireless telecommunications, focused on RF Planning, Design, Optimization and Performance for HSPA and LTE, including at least two years leading teams at the manager level in that field (preferred)
- Experience with large scale retrofits in existing operational facilities