Our company is growing rapidly and is hiring for a packaging technologist. Thank you in advance for taking a look at the list of responsibilities and qualifications. We look forward to reviewing your resume.

Responsibilities for packaging technologist

- Execute and deliver on a range of packaging development & implementation projects that will lead to continuous improvement in product design and performance
- Leads project team during product/packaging development & implementation phases to ensure the packaging is compliant with all relevant food safety requirements, quality standards and shelf life requirements
- Responsible for ensuring the packaging databases for specifications and all packaging data are up to date and aligned with business requirements
- Responsible for the development & progression of more junior Packaging technologists
- Implements cost savings initiatives to deliver against the annual cost savings target
- Ensure that the defined testing & approval procedures are in place and followed
- Contribute to the definition of minimum standards and critical success factors (CSFs) as part of the Handover 1 and 2 processes for defined packaging implementation projects in collaboration with other site R&D team members, MPE Hub R&D, and local cross-functional teams

Qualifications for packaging technologist

- Expertise with MS Office software (Excel, Outlook, Word, and Power Point)
- A proven track record of results in an FMCG packaging role

- Use of artwork approval tools such as Esko systems Webcentre
- Use of PLM, SAP, and Cape pack
- To interface with other functions in support of project delivery