

Example of Product Development Scientist Job Description

Powered by www.VelvetJobs.com

Our company is growing rapidly and is looking for a product development scientist. Thank you in advance for taking a look at the list of responsibilities and qualifications. We look forward to reviewing your resume.

Responsibilities for product development scientist

- Demonstrates scientific excellence through scientific reports, published articles in peer-reviewed journals, society participation, regulatory filings, and/ or patents
- Represents department at CMC/Project Team meetings and works closely with other Pharmaceutical Sciences departments, Process Chemistry, Toxicology, Regulatory Affairs, Quality, Clinical Development and Marketing to meet project timelines and objectives
- Applies current CMC regulatory requirements and guidance to support global registration of new products
- Exhibits leadership skills that result in good performance and career development of junior staff
- Planning and executing experiments independently
- Communicating progress and issues of the projects to stakeholders
- Drawing sound conclusions from the results of own project work and revising product development plans as seen fit based on latest information
- Ensures delivery of project objectives is timely, within budget and success criteria adequately met
- Contributes to the successful execution of new product development activities inclusive of FEI (Front End of Innovation), Stage Gate and core Product Development activities and exploits enabling technology and delivery form platforms to support growth of current and future Nature's Bounty Co

Qualifications for product development scientist

- Bachelor's degree in Chemical Engineering, Chemistry, or other related technical field of study
- 2+ years in a lead technical role(s)
- Results oriented professional who can work across organizational / functional lines and at multiple levels within the organization to achieve targeted business objectives
- Self-driven, goal-oriented, strong interpersonal skills
- Go-to-Market, ceiling or paper formation, and LEAN experience
- Performing polymer chemistry or organic chemistry reactions