

Example of Quantitative Specialist Job Description

Powered by www.VelvetJobs.com

Our growing company is hiring for a quantitative specialist. If you are looking for an exciting place to work, please take a look at the list of qualifications below.

Responsibilities for quantitative specialist

- Begins to lead complex projects in support of new or evolving processes/products
- Prepares presentations and engages directly with clients to present or demonstrate products related to data
- Design, program, and administer research projects
- Conduct data analysis and some statistical analysis on large datasets
- Work with stakeholders to identify research needs and present study results
- Setting up and launching member surveys (pulling sample from our database, managing lists, quality control)
- Coordinating with internal and external localization and translation partners
- Field management (monitor quotas, specs, timelines)
- Backend processing (oversee coding of open ends, transform data into useful formats)
- Work directly with technology and operations personnel

Qualifications for quantitative specialist

- Strong hands-on project leadership skills with the drive to complete complex projects as a part of small teams within an extremely fast paced environment
- Minimum of one (1) year of experience in Excel, including experience with risk simulation add-ins
- Experience in machine learning techniques and algorithms, such as SVM, Random Forests, and Neural
- Experience with statistical packages () such as R, SAS, SPSS, Statistica,

- Must be detail-oriented and possess intellectual curiosity