

Example of Research Principal Job Description

Powered by www.VelvetJobs.com

Our company is searching for experienced candidates for the position of research principal. Thank you in advance for taking a look at the list of responsibilities and qualifications. We look forward to reviewing your resume.

Responsibilities for research principal

- Challenge and motivate others to achieve their highest potential
- Drive technical and process improvement and influence change
- Provide high-level strategic project direction as an expert in clinical research and study design using appropriate methodology
- Act as a major contributor to projects, or leads key projects
- Coordinate a broad range of clinical activities both internally and externally
- Seek out new consultants and build relationships with external subject matter experts
- Communicate data and conclusions using appropriate interpretation and understanding of clinical implications
- Developing new relationships and creating new business opportunities
- Technical review of all health related proposals and company deliverables
- Conducting program evaluations

Qualifications for research principal

- A minimum of Doctoral Degree in Optometry, with at least 4 years of relevant practice, or Doctoral Degree in Optometry, with a completed residency in Optometry and/or other advanced training
- Taking a highly collaborative approach and having the ability to work with limited supervision, comfort with direct supervisory responsibilities is required
- Two or more years of post-doctoral training specifically in the area of clinical

- Documented substantive experience (peer-reviewed publications) in microbiology, , clinical microbiology and/or microbial pathogenesis
- Performing policy analysis
- Writing technical reports and proposals