

Example of RN Wound Care Job Description

Powered by www.VelvetJobs.com

Our growing company is looking to fill the role of RN wound care. Please review the list of responsibilities and qualifications. While this is our ideal list, we will consider candidates that do not necessarily have all of the qualifications, but have sufficient experience and talent.

Responsibilities for RN wound care

- Teaches others to recognize and assess the individual cultural needs of the patient/family/significant other
- Guides other nurses in planning patient care and developing a comprehensive multidisciplinary plan of care for patients within area of specialization
- Guides nursing staff in adhering to and interpreting infection control and other safety standards
- Assists staff with leadership decisions and conflict resolution
- Demonstrates leadership behaviors and teamwork through role modeling
- Guides staff to communicate with patients and peers to assure customer satisfaction
- Leads a group or assists in guiding others in the problem-solving process
- Actively participates in unit level, Department of Nursing, Patient Care Services, or hospital-wide committee/task force/project team
- Assesses the learning needs of the unit then develops and implements a teaching plan
- Acts as a resource person for planning and implementing teaching programs both individually and through collaboration with other nurses

Qualifications for RN wound care

- Assists in the evaluation of outcomes of teaching strategies and revises as

- Directs staff in obtaining and analyzing data leading to effective clinical decisions
- Demonstrates the ability to communicate and apply QI findings to a problem or situation
- Analyze and synthesize evidence used in clinical study with assistance from clinical mentor, as necessary
- Integrates current trends and research affecting patient outcomes