

Example of Solution Architect Job Description

Powered by www.VelvetJobs.com

Our company is hiring for a solution architect. If you are looking for an exciting place to work, please take a look at the list of qualifications below.

Responsibilities for solution architect

- Design and lead solutions to avoid system outages or restore availability to meet SLAs
- You will design and lead infrastructure interfaces and stay abreast of industry best practices and contribute ideas for improvements in DevOps practices, delivering innovation through automation to enable standard deployable units of infrastructure through multiple environments into production
- You will research new technology on the market, POC it and push it to development
- You will plan, design, and program new technologies in accounts/products life cycle
- You will participate in the planning, design, and implementation efforts
- You will have the opportunity to bring new market's technologies into development and product
- To be an expert in areas and to have an understanding of other disciplines and to know how they affect their own discipline and vice versa
- Work with project teams to define purpose-built schemas to handle large-scale and non-relational workloads
- You will provide strategic influence across groups, projects and products to implement cost-effective technology solutions to solve complex business problems
- Lead project analysis and implementation phases as Solution Architect

Qualifications for solution architect

- As a Business Analyst, one will be responsible for understanding the business requirements of our global customers, analyze them and prepare optimal solution along with the standard business processes
- Drive customer escalation on a e2e service delivery level
- Achievements/Challenges/Upcoming activities
- TT trends
- Customer issue