

Example of Teaching & Research Faculty Job Description

Powered by www.VelvetJobs.com

Our growing company is looking for a teaching & research faculty. Thank you in advance for taking a look at the list of responsibilities and qualifications. We look forward to reviewing your resume.

Responsibilities for teaching & research faculty

- Faculty member will be expected to embrace the Department's commitment to the University's goals and mission through participating in various administrative functions (ie, participation on committees)
- Prepare reports for the Dean of the SOM and the Office of the Vice President for Research (VPR), including annual reports, annual budget presentations, and other documents as requested
- Ensure compliance of CERSE programs with institutional and regulatory standards
- Maintain open, responsive, and effective communication among individuals affiliated with CERSE and community partners—including effective communication of concepts to individuals with varying degrees of familiarity with research-related activity
- A successful track record of both publication and extramural research funding
- An interest in areas complementary to current VIPBG expertise, , psychiatric genetics, genomics, neuroscience or development

Qualifications for teaching & research faculty

- Certification by the American Board of OB/GYN in General OB/GYN and Gynecologic Oncology
- MD degree with current Board Certification in pediatrics Hem/Onc
- MD degree with current Board Certification in pediatrics

- Candidates should have an outstanding record of achievement and impactful research in academia, industry and/or at national laboratories and demonstrate excellent oral and written communication skills
- Junior faculty candidates will be required to have an established research agenda and a clear potential for external funding, and potential for scholarship or creative expression to complement and expand existing expertise in the department and the School of Engineering