

Example of Telecommunications Specialist Job Description

Powered by www.VelvetJobs.com

Our company is hiring for a telecommunications specialist. If you are looking for an exciting place to work, please take a look at the list of qualifications below.

Responsibilities for telecommunications specialist

- Participate in the implementation and maintenance of telecommunications systems and services
- Adhere to bank standards based on industry best practices and stated business needs
- Identify and leverage telecommunications integration opportunities at the hardware, software and interface level in order to optimize systems
- Maintain standards related to telecommunications system configurations, security and service records
- Provides Audio/Visual support to the organizational meetings, conferences, audio/video teleconferences
- Performs troubleshooting of equipment and connections to analyze, isolate and correct operational faults in the equipment
- Coordinates large multipoint video teleconferences
- Troubleshoot and repair hardware IT equipment such as Phone Systems, Telephones, Fax Machines, Modems, PCs, terminals, printers
- Install, test, and maintain all telecom and network equipment located within their assigned area of responsibility
- Serve as a technical advisor providing assistance/guidance to system users, program managers, and contracting personnel

Qualifications for telecommunications specialist

- Graduated from a college or university with an Associate or Bachelor of

- Experience in performing detailed design and quality control and assurance for life safety systems and communication and security systems
- Capable of leading a team of engineers, designers, and technicians from project kick off to design and/or construction completion
- Proficient in Excel, Word and OneNote
- Applicant selected will be subject to a government security investigation and must meet eligibility requirements for a TS/SCI w/Full Scope Poly Level Security Clearance for access to classified information