Our innovative and growing company is looking for a testing senior manager. If you are looking for an exciting place to work, please take a look at the list of qualifications below.

Responsibilities for testing senior manager

- Establish the product vision, goals, road map, priorities and roll-out plans for the global A/B testing platform & toolset, focused on improving testing insights and velocity
- Collaborate with product management, analytics, engineering, data science, information systems teams to gather feedback and requirements
- Define and lead the creation of new capabilities, such as self-service dashboards, results summarization, test & data quality/consistency checks, tools to speed access to insights
- Work closely with engineering to specify feature details, create user stories, drive Agile delivery and UAT
- Problem-solve data reliability and accuracy challenges in conjunction with other teams
- Establish instrumentation and data collection standards and improvements
- Create and deliver training, education and documentation for stakeholders
- Benchmark capabilities vs industry leaders and competitors
- Explore & deliver new tools and techniques for testing and insights
- Working with the Capital Markets and Testing leads to develop & implement existing & new market propositions across a number of industry sectors

Qualifications for testing senior manager

- Minimum 3+ years of successful Test automation, performance testing, test tools and data experience

- 8+ years experience in an R&D, quality or textile manufacturing role
- Working knowledge of Quality Testing concepts and practices
- The COE lead will engage multiple IT stakeholder groups across a wide variety of levels and functional positions to assess current testing practices, build shared knowledge around internal and industry best practices
- Experience in a technology solutions environment background in developing performance measurements, best practices