Our company is growing rapidly and is looking for an user experience researcher. If you are looking for an exciting place to work, please take a look at the list of qualifications below.

Responsibilities for user experience researcher

- Design and conduct iterative research (usability tests, heuristic evaluations, card sorts, paper prototyping,), write-up comprehensive results and communicate actionable insights to the product teams
- Communicate research insights to business partners and business leaders
- Generate user personas across various market and user segments based on research
- Provide functional requirements, user interaction models and workflows with data from field research
- Maintain a repository of user/customer data for use by multidisciplinary groups
- Travel domestically and internationally as necessary to conduct research
- Create and maintain a shared repository of user research data
- You understand the relevant marketplace and consumer and technology factors and are
- Use a variety of research methods and tools to best reach the goals of each project in order to provide rich, actionable insights
- Conducts testing of concepts in-production experiences

Qualifications for user experience researcher

- 3 - 5+ years experience in user experience research
- Rapid iteration – You make it easy for designers to try out their early work on

- Team skills – You speak the languages of designers, business people, and users
- Professional skills – You have strong written, verbal, and presentation skills
- Experience with a broad range of research methodologies (qualitative and quantitative techniques)
- Strong aptitude for learning new technologies, and demonstrated agility and flexibility in decision making and the way you work