

Example of User Experience Researcher Job Description

Powered by www.VelvetJobs.com

Our growing company is hiring for an user experience researcher. If you are looking for an exciting place to work, please take a look at the list of qualifications below.

Responsibilities for user experience researcher

- Effectively collect key objective measures
- Partner closely with all relevant Segments to ensure the deployment and adherence to established human factors design guidelines
- Act as primary lead to deliver cutting edge User Experience methodologies (human factors, usability, cognitive engineering,) skills and services to the relevant Segments
- That the core customer journeys on Sainsbury's digital products and services (as defined by Digital Experience) can be used by all disabled customers
- Contribute to improvements in the KPIs of Digital Experience team products as set out by the Digital Experience team objectives
- Inform the Digital Product Roadmaps through user research findings
- Where appropriate, ensure that work is executed collaboratively with the Sainsbury's insights team
- A test and learn approach is applied to all digital product development at Sainsbury's
- Conduct research studies that vary in approach, scale, scope, timeframe, and methodologies that will dramatically shape our product direction
- Collaborate with our Product Management and Product Design teams to identify areas of improvement or feature development

Qualifications for user experience researcher

- 3+ years of research experience on complex desktop or web-based software applications
- 5+ years of experience in UX
- Masters or PhD degree in Cognitive or Experimental Psychology, Human Computer Interaction, Human Factors, or related field
- Degree in human factors, HCI, cognitive psychology, anthropology, information science, social science, or related discipline
- Degree in Human Computer Interaction, Human Factors, Experimental Psychology, Cognitive Science, Anthropology, Mechanical Engineering or related discipline