

Example of UX Researcher Job Description

Powered by www.VelvetJobs.com

Our innovative and growing company is looking to fill the role of UX researcher. We appreciate you taking the time to review the list of qualifications and to apply for the position. If you don't fill all of the qualifications, you may still be considered depending on your level of experience.

Responsibilities for UX researcher

- Planning, recruiting, screening, moderating, analyzing, and delivering insights
 - Conveying research insights in compelling and creative ways to various stakeholders
 - Continually developing a sense of user needs, evaluate design and product decisions, help teams prioritize enhancements, and increase our collective empathy for our users
 - Takes direction from lead researcher- create research test plans (methodologies and objectives), project timelines, screeners, test collateral (including scripts, screeners, reports), conduct research and create reports and topline
 - Aggregate macro findings
 - Conducts Safaris, visits stores and other activities as required to better understand our customers
 - Create user scenarios and research objectives that are aligned with project and business goals
 - Create project plans and artifacts that describe UX research efforts, timelines, and outcomes
 - Prepare for and conduct weekly sessions to gather user expectations for and feedback on interaction design hypotheses for complex projects
 - Work with the UX research manager to plan and conduct other in-depth exploratory and evaluative studies outside of the agile framework
-

- Delivers design work on projects with minimal oversight
- Your role includes problem solving difficult journeys, rapid prototyping, user testing, and iterative improvements across all platforms
- BA/BS degree a human behavior related field (HCI, Psychology, Social Science, Information Science,) MA / PhD preferred
- An MSc or MA in Human Factors, Human Computer Interaction, Cognitive Psychology, Cognitive Science, or Interaction Design would be highly desirable
- Understanding of different research techniques
- Currently working in a research role in a digital business