

Example of Web Development Engineer Job Description

Powered by www.VelvetJobs.com

Our innovative and growing company is looking for a web development engineer. Please review the list of responsibilities and qualifications. While this is our ideal list, we will consider candidates that do not necessarily have all of the qualifications, but have sufficient experience and talent.

Responsibilities for web development engineer

- Participate in all stages of the software development cycle, including design and development of significant new architectures and features
- Participate in the design, implementation, and documentation of client-side web application development projects from requirements gathering to deployment
- Maintain and enhance existing client-side web application to improve performance and usability
- Perform routine site updates and maintenance as needed
- Design, develop, test, review, and deploy custom web and mobile applications
- Working with the content management team to design structure for the content to be rendered
- Work with the other developers on the team to integrate the Front end with the backend services
- Design, develop, and maintain internet-scale web applications on AWS
- You will design and implement high quality transactional services including design, development, and deployment of new business functionality
- You will work closely with development, program management and product management to define and articulate project technical requirements

Qualifications for web development engineer

- Experience with web technologies like HTML, CSS, XML, JSON, JavaScript and JSP rich internet application development using HTML5
- Expertise with Agile methodologies (SCRUM, Kanban)
- Experience integrating software solutions with hardware devices and the cloud back-end
- Ability to work closely with a senior, robust team, while being a strong individual contributor
- Developing customer centric products
- Experience with design and implementation of solutions to delight the customers